

Division: Institute of Media, Social Sciences and Humanities

Academic programme: 5.6. Historical Sciences

5.6.1 National History (History of Russia)

5.6.3 Archaeology

5.6.5 Historiography, Source Studies, Methods of Historical Research

Mode of study: full-time

Programme length: 3 years

Programme level: postgraduate studies

Language of instruction: Russian

Programme description: This programme aims at training top-qualification research and teaching staff. Training in this postgraduate programme opens up opportunities for improvement of the research work skills, including in the field of archival search, and interpretation and contextualization of the discovered information. Students learn the up-to-date methodology, historiographic understanding of a wide range of problems, and modern context-specific historical methods of research on the history of Russia. This programme helps students form an interdisciplinary attitude towards the humanities problems, and offers good language training, as well as highly qualified academic advising. Training in postgraduate programmes guarantees access to research collaboration with the leading scientists of the Ural region.

Graduates of this programme can pursue professions of researchers, teachers, specialists in culture and education, or experts and analysts in the history of Russia. The fields of professional activity: conducting research in research organisations and institutions of higher education in the field of the history of Russia; conducting research and educational activities in cultural institutions, archives, museums, exhibition complexes related to the history of Russia; educational and popularization activities in mass media, public and state organisations related to the history of Russia.

Main programme-specific classes:

- History and Philosophy of Science
- Theory and Methods of Professional Education
- Foreign Language

Programme manager: Doctor of Sciences (History), Associate Professor E. V. Volkov